Alingar Alkozai Construction Company (AACC) recently completed a 5-kilometer design-build base course road project in Alishang District of Laghman Province. The road project in Laghman is benefitting the people of Afghanistan by providing a well-built, safe roadway for daily travel by thousands of residents in the Alishang District. This road consists of a seven meter wide carriageway with one meter shoulders including many slab culverts, pipe culverts and causeways.

The AACC team includes a staff of knowledgeable and proficient engineers and construction managers. The AACC staff is highly professional in all aspects of roadway design and construction. The company has excellent design team and highly skilled project managers for construction activities. AACC turned in professional plans for every aspect of the roadway construction including roadway and structures design plans, design mix formulas, traffic control and scheduling. They attended meeting as scheduled each week and submitted comprehensive, well written weekly progress reports. AACC provided laboratory testing reports for materials, all stages of road construction, asphalt and concrete. AACC worked in close cooperation with the Quality Assurance Representative for their project to insure that each phase of design and construction was done with a high degree of quality.

I highly recommend any of the staff of AACC for future projects in support of the reconstruction of Afghanistan.
